SCARCITY OF HAY.

England and the Rest of Europe
Taking Our Surplus.

FIFTY DOLLARS A TON FOR HAY

Is a Pretty High Figure, But It Has Been Reached Lately in Both London and Paris—The Yield in this Section Will Only Reach Half that of Former Seasons—Where the Supply Will Come From.

In European countries there is an almost universal scarcity of hay and fodder, and the result has been the establishment of a hay export line in this country, the first cargo having been shipped, as told in the INTELLIGENCER, some time ago. Europe can be counted on to take more than the surplus product of America's timothy fields, and the consequence will be a big rise in the price of feed this coming fall. Aside from this, the hay yield in this state, western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio will not average more than half the yield of previous years. A wholesale feed man, who knows a "few lines" about hay, said to an INTELLIGENCER reporter yesterday that there is bound to be a big increase in the price of hay this fall. The cause of the light crop in this section this year, he said, lies in the fact that there have been extensive droughts for the past two years, as well as a multitude of grasshoppers to contend with. This year, however, there are no grasshoppers to speak of. West Virginia, and this section generally, has during years past exported hay to Baltimore and other eastern ports, but none will go away this year. On the other hand, this part of the country will have to look to other sections for its hay supply. Most of it will come from Iowa, Indiana and Michigan.

The farmers are not philanthropists by any means. This fact is illustrated by the general attempt among the growers of hay, the country over, to advance the price of that article. They see that almost an entire continent looks to them for a year's supply of hay, and they intend taking advantage of this to put the price up as far as possible. It would be well for these farmers to go a little slower, else their dream of high prices and big profits will be but a delusion and a snare. Said a well informed hay man yesterday: "It won't do for our farmers to put the prices too high, as in that case England and the other nations wanting our hay will turn to South America or India, where they can get all they want at reasonable prices."

Hay has recently reached enormous figures in European centers. In May at Paris the top-notch quotation was $52. A gentleman from Dorsetshire, England, now in Washington, Pa., with a herd of fine English sheep, enroute to the World's Fair, has just received a letter from his father, who is located on a farm 160 miles from London, in which he says that hay is now selling at $40 and $50 per ton. The freight on hay from points east of Chicago to London and Liverpool is $12 to $14 per ton, so it will be seen that hay here to-day is actually worth from $26 to $38. This, however, is thought to be but a temporary condition, as with American hay now constantly going to England, the price must necessarily come down to the American price plus the freight and a reasonable profit.

It is learned that within the past month a small quantity of hay has been shipped to eastern ports from the Short Creek region, presumably for export, but on account of the scarcity at home it is not supposed more will follow.

ON A LONG TOUR.

Arrival of a Trio of Hagerstown Bicycle Tourists in the City.

Last evening at 10:30 o'clock three wheel tourists on a rather a remarkable journey arrived in the city from the east via the pike, on their bicycles. They were D. Y. Walts, W. Irving Calver and Harry Johnson, of the Hagerstown Bicycle Club, Hagerstown, Md., and are on a two thousand mile tour. They left Hagerstown Sunday morning and since then have crossed the Alleghenies, striking some very tough roads. They go from here to Chicago via the National pike, where they will remain several days and take in the national meet of the League of American Wheelmen, and the World's Fair. From Chicago they will wheel to Buffalo and Niagara Falls on the great Lake Shore pike across Canada, then to Elmira and Harrisburg, Pa., and finally down the Cumberland Valley to their home. They are a very jolly crowd, which is evidenced by their card, as follows:

D. Y. WALTS,
PARTY PHYSICIAN.
Great Success in Cramps, Colic, Belly-Ache and pains in Stomach.

W. I. CALVER,
PARTY ENGINEER.
Specialties, Sick Bicycles, Busted Tires, Good Roads and—All off for grub.

HARRY JOHNSON,
PARTY PROTECTOR.
All persons are kindly requested to keep at a safe distance—his maul was too heavy to carry.

They wheeled from Uniontown yesterday over the mountains, and will leave this morning for Zanesville, which they expect to reach to-night. They are not out on a "scorch" and expect to be on the road six weeks.

One of the tourists relates a good story on the Chesapeake canal toll collectors. Recently the canal people issued an order that wheels be kept off the tow path; this is a hardship as the tow path is the only rideable route up the Alleghenies. The Hagerstown crowd correctly gauged the character of the toll collectors, and got around the order. When they started out they provided themselves with a number of half-pint bottles of whiskey, and when they met a toll man, would throw him a bottle. They had no trouble, and rode the tow path.

Mr. Calver is riding one of the Crawford bicycles made in Hagerstown by a firm of which he is a member.

QUITE A BATCH

Of Offenders under the new House of Ill Fame Act Dealt with.

Etta Ditty was given a hearing in Squire Arkle's court yesterday for maintaining a nuisance in the Second ward. The charge was made on account of the unseemly racket that has been going on at her house. She was sent to jail in default of $200 bond for her appearance at court.

Mary Martin, Florence Mitchell, Jessie Benson, Virgie Anderson and Annie Ranor, all inmates of the house, Robert Harkens and Abe Dean, arrested as loiterers, were committed to jail in default of $50 bond. Dean afterwards secured bail and was released from custody.

William McGlumphy, for renting a house for immoral purposes to Nell Clifford, was required to give $200 bond for his appearance in court. Lee Robinson, for renting a house for the same purpose to Etta Ditty, was required to give bond in the same amount.

John Michaels, after serving seven months in jail under the bad lame act, was released on his own recognizance at the request of his father, promising to moud his ways.

A Rare Old Coin.

Judge G. L. Cramer, who is an enthusiastic numismatist, added a valuable coin to his fine collection a few days ago. The coin was found a day before it came into his possession by a farmer while plowing over the former site of Fort Van Meter. This is located four miles from West Liberty, on Short creek, and was noted as the spot on which Major McCulloch was killed. The coin bears the date of 1752, and notwithstanding it has been under ground for over a century, is in a good state of preservation. On one side is a profile head, surrounded with lettering, and on the reverse a figure seated on a dais. The judge is very proud of this recent addition to his collection and carries it as a pocket piece.

One Held and One Let Go.

James Lavelle and "Jimmie" Mulkearn had a hearing before Squire Gillespy yesterday afternoon on the charge of burglary. Mr. Post appeared for the state and Col. Arnett for the defense. Lavelle was positively identified by John Campbell as the man with whom he had a struggle in his room, which, with other evidence almost as strong left little room for doubt of his guilt. As to Mulkearn, however, it was different. It was proven that he had been with Lavelle the same night, but there was an entire lack of evidence to connect him directly with the burglary. He was therefore dismissed, while Lavelle was remanded to jail in default of $1,000 bail for his appearance at the next term of the criminal court.

Private Electric Light Plants.

The small electric light plant for the use of single establishments or the tenants of a block seems destined to be very popular in Wheeling. William McLaughlin has just got his fine plant into use, and it produces a very fine light. A movement is now on foot to put a plant in the Grand Opera House block, to furnish incandescent lights for the theatre and the different business houses on the first floor. M. Hearn is pushing this project, and the idea seems to be favorably received by the other tenants. This will be the seventh or eighth plant in Wheeling.

New Court House to be Built.

The county court of Wyoming county is about to build and furnish at Oceana a new court house, an exact counterpart of the one recently completed in Raleigh county. In another column is an advertisement by the building committee, inviting sealed proposals for the work, which contractors and builders will find of interest.

Don't sicken people with that bad breath. Take Simmons Liver Regulator to sweeten it.

"Soda Toast."

We ask your attention to that great selling specialty in the cracker line of Geo. R. Hill & Co. It is known as "Soda Toast." It works its way into popular favor for the following reasons:

1. It has something of the flavor and of the qualities of those higher priced sponged flakes, such as Sea Foam, Snow Drift, etc., but sells at about 4 cents per pound less. Its small size and greater substance makes it a prime favorite with all classes.

2. It is delicate, pure, healthful, strengthening; an ideal summer biscuit. Just give this excellent cracker a chance to talk for itself by ordering a sample lot only, and we feel that you will thank us for this modest urgency.

Yours very truly,

BAERS BROS' GROCERY COMPANY.
